REGIONAL NEWS

DUBAI: EPOC Messe Frankfurt and Deutsche Messe Branch Dubai have joined up to showcase a complete design spectrum under one roof from 25-27 May 2008 in Dubai. The event, that will take place in the International Exhibition Centre, will mean that Light Middle East, ISH Kitchen and Bath Middle East, Garden and Landscaping Middle East and International CES/Hometech will be exhibited alongside Domotex, the region's only dedicated flooring exhibition.

The decision to join the events together was a result of practicalities according to Kent Daniels, director of marketing, EPOC Messe Frankfurt GmbH: "It's more beneficial for visitors to attend one show where they can see a range of different designs under one roof. Hotels in Dubai aren't the cheapest, so from a value point of view it is better for visitors to only have to make the trip to Dubai once rather than on two separate occasions which can be costly."

It is also hoped that the decision will result in a greater number of visitors attending the shows. "By this cooperation in marketing we provide interior products professionals more reasons to visit the fair ground, spend more quality time and therefore enhancing efficiency in business. The new timing for Domotex Middle East also fits perfectly in the region's business calendar," explained Angela Schaschen, managing director of Deutsche Messe Branch Dubai.

APID gains IFI membership

APID becomes first association from Arab country

APID, the association representing professional interior designers in the UAE and Gulf region, has been given IFI (International Federation of Interior Architects/Designers) membership at the 23rd IFI General Assembly in Busan, South Korea. The successful application means APID is the first association from an Arab country to be given membership to the organisation.

The IFI is the principal international body bringing interior architects and designers together in one organisation and represents over 25,000 interior designers from 45 countries worldwide.

When asked why APID decided to apply for membership Dr. John Alexander Smith, vice president of APID said: "APID will benefit from the international recognition and will be in touch with mainstream developments in professional practice that affect this increasingly global vocation. It will benefit from exposure to acknowledged international standards of professional practice as developed by IFI, while confirming that APID standards match international norms."

He added: "During Index 2006 the APID stand was visited by many interior designers from other countries whose associations were members of IFI, so we decided in subsequent council meetings to apply ourselves for membership."

The association's inclusion fills the void of Middle East representation within the international organisation. Smith said that this along with the strength of APID's presentation before the assembly was the reason for their membership. He went on to say that APID intends to put forward a case for representing the entire Gulf region in time for the next IFI General Assembly that will be held in Singapore in 2009.

Part of APID's aim is to provide a platform for education and development within the design community by hosting public events comprising of workshops, seminars, exhibitions and lectures. Forthcoming events include the Walls and Floors Forum to be held on November 11 and the Safety in Design Seminar on December 6.

APID GAINS IFI MEMBERSHIP THURSDAY, 01 NOVEMBER 2007

APID, the association representing professional interior designers in the UAE and Gulf region, has been given IFI (International Federation of Interior Architects/Designers) membership at the 23rd IFI General Assembly in Busan, South Korea. The successful application means APID is the first association from an Arab country to be given membership to the organization. The IFI is the principal international body bringing interior architects and designers together in one organization and represents over 25,000 interior designers from 45 countries worldwide.

As both a Founding Member and Board Director of APID, the experience over the last 18 years in Dubai has borne witness to the growing maturity and recognition of the design culture in the UAE and the region. We will soon have a new home in an area that APID deemed at the very heart of the future of design and creativity and we are looking forward to the Association for Interior Designers' next class Design Masters.

JOHN CAROLAN
APID BOARD DIRECTOR

"APID's birth and existence was the result of design it means that both industry and appreciators (patrons and design). During the last decade APID has successfully gathered people in this industry to create a base for the development of the interior community. I have been witness to the relentless work APID has done to become the support and backbone of many designers and industry partners of many years. I am proud to be part of such an association and to be able to contribute to the goal of helping fellow designers.".

HISHAM AL YAWER
APID BOARD DIRECTOR

"The keen vision of H.H. Sheikh Mohammed Bin Rashid Al Maktoum has made Dubai a world destination. Like a skillful sculptor and a creative designer, His Highness molded our culture into a society where a dream can become a reality. It is upon us, the community of designers, to follow in the steps of His Highness and exhaust all efforts so that Dubai becomes the design capital of the world."

HAZEM EL-KHATIB
APID BOARD VICE PRESIDENT

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends,

It is my honour to present this publication, a 10th anniversary commemoration of the accomplishments of The Association of Professional Interior Designers. With deep awareness of the contributions made I am grateful to all the people who made this possible. To the board of directors, the executive council, and our membership - which has been the main pillar of strength, our supporters, well-wishers, the media and the government bodies who have graciously aided with us in our endeavours.

Successful institutions in modern society are neither accidental nor imposed. They are created by collective experience, wisdom and progressive foresight. They serve and guide the community in the best manner by knowing and maintaining institutional standards during shifting economic conditions, workplace transformations and constant advancements in practices and expertise. As an industry platform, APID has accomplished these to the best of its ability by taking initiatives and finding solutions to challenges.

As we complete our 10 years of operation, we look forward to the next decade with anticipation and confidence. The UAE's position and policies are pragmatically aligned with global reality and practices to make it a future hub of innovation and design. An extraordinary period of opportunity is emerging for APID, while being the only professional association for interior designers in the region; we should take initiatives for the betterment of multiple disciplines for the betterment and profit of society as a whole and the interior design profession in particular.

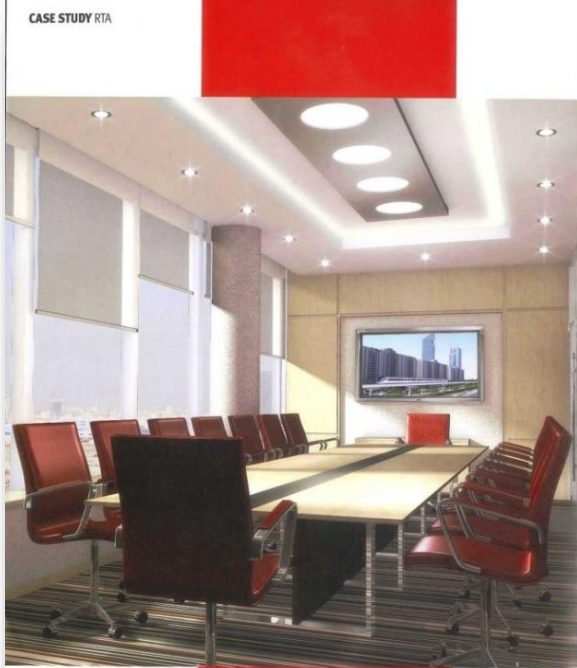

We will need to be resourceful and to assist in policy-making, in advocating the use of materials that reduce carbon footprint, in assisting the shift of focus from design that now encourages appearance and consumption to design that shapes attitude and behaviour. APID will innovate to relate, research to educate and will collaborate with best practices in multiple disciplines for the betterment and profit of society as a whole and the interior design profession in particular.

With best wishes,

HAZEM EL-KHATIB
APID BOARD VICE PRESIDENT

CASE STUDY RTA

UNIQUE Not Different

Corporate colours and hidden messages abound in Design Design's plans for the latest RTA regional HQ

This month sees the opening of the Public Transport Agency and Dubai Taxi Headquarters located in Dubai's Muhaisnah Fourth area after just a year in the planning stages and an intensive four months fit-out. The 900sqm crescent-shaped building houses both the Dubai Taxi and Public Transport Agencies in a collaborative venture that sees an interesting floor plan. It encompasses two vast Operational Command Centres (OCCs) in addition to workstations and offices for 300 full-time staff and training facilities for a further 90 people over four floors. Laila Tawfeeq, projects planning and design manager, RTA says: "Our vision was to create a unique and recognisable identity for the RTA Offices. Our main priority was giving efficient space to our employees. We started discussing the concepts and space planning in November 2006 with Design Design, and together we drew the lines of the unique design."

Hazem El-Khatib, managing partner, Design Design explains: "We wanted to create a story, a concept behind the design. The RTA deals with roads and transport so we started brainstorming the associations with this. Some of the keywords that we came up with are: Well-work, destination; endurance; technology; dynamic. These then provided the basis of the design." El-Khatib and his team decided that by using subtle linear patterns that hinted at the "network" aspect of the RTA's business the corporate message would be embedded in all aspects of the design. The patterns show movement, staggered lines and gradient shades and are either part of the carpet design, such as in the meeting rooms, criss-crossed oblique lines on the artificial columns giving the feeling of movement in the OCCs, etched onto the front of the reception counters or as part of the marble flooring patterns in the corridors. "Emulating the road network is such a simple message but really effective. Even the elevator cabins have the same crossed lines," adds El-Khatib. The RTA's corporate message is also evident in the bold use of colour throughout, which echoes the logo's base. Tawfeeq explains: "As red is our corporate

CASE STUDY PETROFAC

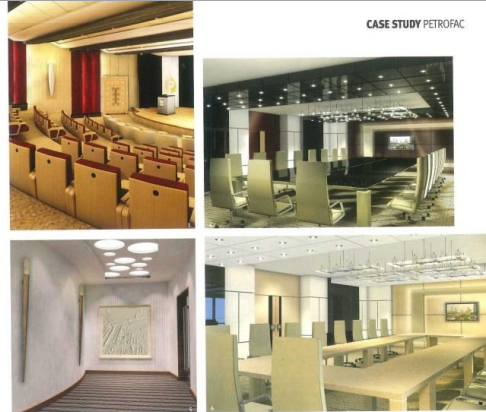

Fashion for Fuel

Organic shapes and a minimalist style are top priorities for Design's plans for Petrofac

Corporate interior design projects don't come much bigger than Design's latest commercial assignment – designing 35,000 sq m of floors for petroleum giant Petrofac at its new headquarters in Sharjah. Heading over a zoo employees, an auditorium, a large cafeteria, numerous floors of open-plan workstations and management offices, an executive floor and an elegant penthouse for visiting clients, the challenges were countless and the design results diverse.

Hanan El-Dabbas, managing partner, Design explains how his team won the contract for this huge prestigious HQ: "Unlike other projects where designers are still expected to submit speculative designs in order to win a contract, for this project we presented our company and our capabilities and then provided a financial quotation for the entire design package. In our financial offer we gave the client a timetable of work and defined scope of responsibilities. As it was a new build, our role was more than just pure interior design, we had to blur the line between architecture, engineering, contracting and design. A month and a half of very tight negotiations followed."

He continues: "Ordinarily when faced with a massive project like this one, we would do a series of detailed project analysis and workplace assessments, which include: deciphering the hierarchy within the company, its specific needs and requirements, studying the interaction between departments – the stacking and blocking." In this instance, Petrofac actually had its own team of engineers and project managers who had completed all these studies prior to Design being appointed. "This cut down on our workload, and hence reduced our fees quite considerably. Because the client had this very knowledgeable team in place already, they knew about the materials we suggested, the suppliers, the architecture and structural details, and so it was a very collaborative project, with them involved at each step. They had the functional ideas but not a sense of the image, which is where we were able to guide the process."

The design concept was to highlight the firm's dependence on practicality, safety and security, which is essentially the ethics it promotes in its day-to-day business dealings. The client wanted the design to be highly practical, they have heavy traffic, daily, both in the number of employees in the building and visitors, so the working environment needed to be durable, organised and ergonomic. "Our starting point was to think about what the company actually did, and as they are a petroleum company, we started designing around what you use when you drill down deep into the earth, and you see many different layers and textures, so we started using this in our designs. In subtle ways as 'hidden messages.' We specified lots of raw materials such as concrete, granite, stone and wood. We tried to use earthy tones, organic shapes and circular pipes to emphasise the client's business," El-Dabbas says.

After the first presentation the client wanted the preliminary designs toned down a little, to become more minimalist and to use more subtle space. "We had to remember that the company is essentially an engineering firm and engineers are highly practical people, and many of our proposed finishes were too decorative for their tastes," Imran Ahmed Khan, project co-ordinator, Design Design adds.

The lighting concept was one such area where the design firm and the client underwent a lengthy series of discussions and studies. El-Dabbas explains: "The international minimum lighting standard for an office space is 300 lux but I wanted to go higher, 500 lux as I believed that we need bright interiors in an environment such as the UAE in order to balance the average daylight. We then realised that with

- 1. The original design for the company based on an idiosyncratic manufacturer.
- 2. Design Design created a master plan and set of a series of floor plates, petroleum plants.
- 3. The final design for the boardroom.

"SALALAH FREE ZONE
IN THE WORDS OF
DESIGN DESIGN LLC."

DESIGN
DESIGN
LLC
INTERIOR DESIGN SERVICES

Since the assignment of DESIGN DESIGN LLC as the interior design consultant on 2014, the project of Salalah Free Zone Headquarters had taken many diversions pursuing to the rapid growth in business and the aggressive reform which was envisaged by the Salalah Free Zone Company. The objective is to create a business hub where investors can incubate their operation into the Salalah region with minimum hassle. This mandates the development of a 'one stop shop' facility incorporating the necessary governmental services, investors' enclaves and business lounges. The interior design study was initiated from a thorough understanding of the operation which is intended in the Salalah Free Zone Headquarters. This had imposed on DESIGN DESIGN LLC to conduct a workplace audit with concentration on the logistic and technical requirements from both architectural and interior design aspects.

Mr. Hazem El-Khatib, managing partner of DESIGN DESIGN LLC, stated that the interior design of the SFZ Headquarters reflects the heritage of the Sultanate of Oman, the synergy of the gulf, and the speed of the rapid modern evolution. The heritage is depicted in the use of raw materials and traditional Omani patterns. Vertical cladding on the walls reflects the strength and reliability of the SFZ operation. Intersecting floor pattern suggests the concept of networking. The overall aspect of the design suggests: "A promising growth which is generated by an equal opportunity network, brought together by the solid operation of the Salalah Free Zone." The general mood is one of a contemporary aspect tainted by the prominent spirit of the Omani culture. The color scheme is adopted from the surrounding environment with a blue accent inherited from the ocean of the Salalah region.

The approach of DESIGN DESIGN LLC in the project dictates that all interior design drawings should be developed to the utmost details. This meticulous approach helped the project team to reduce and overcome the unnecessary constraints which are common in projects of such scale. This approach could have not been achieved without the wise decision of the CEO of the Salalah Free Zone Company, Mr. Awad Salim Al-Shanfari, who instructed to follow the design and not to deviate from the proposed specifications. Thus, the actual fit-out of the SFZ Headquarters evolved identical to the proposed design with a noticeable high standard of finishing.

The senior project manager, Mr. Mohamad El-Ghazzi of DESIGN DESIGN LLC, stated that the exquisite work is the result of the endurance and persistency of all members of the project team from the qualified engineers of the Salalah Free Zone Company to the dedicated main fit-out contractor, and partners.
